USAID’s Financial Access for Investing in the Development of Afghanistan (FAIDA) program helps the Afghan government and the private sector develop a robust financial sector capable to provide financial services, as well as to develop a financial legal framework and market infrastructure that will foster economic growth and generate employment opportunities. Moreover, this program directly assists the Afghan women entrepreneurs by providing targeted business development, training, and mobile money support.
CURRENT ACTIVITIES

- Enterprises: Provides tailored financial solutions by creating access to capital and increasing competitiveness. Links lenders to businesses who are in need for financing, (e.g. agricultural sector and remote areas).
- Banking Capacity: Builds the human and organizational capacity of Afghanistan’s financing sector, including banks.
- Regulatory: Creates environment for lending institutions as well as borrowers to help reduce risk and increase predictability. Develops new or updated regulations for the financial sector and key institutions.
- Better Than Cash: Provides technical assistance to Afghanistan’s cellular network operators to introduce new and innovative products and services and expand the use of mobile money.
- Gender Mainstreaming Unit: Ensures that women are integrated into Afghanistan’s financial sector, have access to financing services, and afforded opportunities for economic and professional growth.
