Since September 25, 2013 the U.S. Government has committed a total of $100 million in support of the High Impact Micro-Infrastructure Initiative (HIMI). The HIMI was launched by Secretary Kerry in partnership with the Palestinian Authority at last year's Ad Hoc Liaison Committee meeting. HIMI objectives are to create jobs and build vital infrastructure throughout the West Bank. Projects include upgrading of existing and construction of new health clinics, schools, water systems, community centers, and roads. These projects are designed to deliver tangible benefits to improve the living conditions of Palestinians and to support growth of the Palestinian economy.

In addition to funding for HIMI projects, since September 2013, USAID has committed approximately $85 million in support of new water, roads, and other community infrastructure projects the West Bank benefiting more than 750,000 people.
