AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Privacy Act of 1974; System of Records

AGENCY: United States Agency for International Development.

ACTION: Privacy Act System of Records Notice.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a), the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving notice that it proposes to establish a new system of records, the Partner Vetting System (PVS). The PVS will support the vetting of individuals, officers, or other officials of non-governmental organizations who apply for USAID contracts, grants, cooperative agreements, or other funding, or who apply for registration with USAID as Private and Voluntary Organizations (PVOs), ensuring that neither USAID funds nor USAID-funded activities inadvertently or otherwise provide support to entities or individuals associated with terrorism. These efforts include: (1) Requiring that all solicitations, contracts, Annual Program Statements or Requests for Applications, grants or cooperative agreements, or other comparable documents contain language reminding USAID partners of the laws and Executive Orders prohibiting the provision of resources and support to individuals and organizations associated with terrorism; (2) requiring all non-governmental organization (NGO) applicants for grants and cooperative agreements to submit terrorist financing certifications; and (3) requiring USAID contracting officers and agreement officers to check applicable terrorist listings to ensure that potential contractors, grantees, subcontractors, and sub-grantees are not on these listings.

In addition to the precautions described above, there is also a statutory requirement for vetting under USAID’s West Bank and Gaza (WBG) program. Since Fiscal Year 2003, the annual foreign operations appropriations legislation has required that, “the Secretary of State shall take all appropriate steps to ensure that such assistance is not provided to or through any individual, private or government entity, or education institution that the Secretary knows or has reason to believe advocates, plans, sponsors, engages in, or has engaged in, terrorist activity.” Accordingly, USAID’s mission for the WBG developed anti-terrorism procedures for all awards that it administers and has conducted vetting since 2003. A recent review of the WBG program by the Government Accountability Office (GAO) identified processes and procedures that could be improved and streamlined with the use of additional information technology.

The PVS is being created, in part, as a result of these recommendations and will assist not only the mission for WBG in better tracking and managing the overall vetting process, but all locations in which USAID has or will have a program.

PVS will facilitate the management and collection of information from individuals, officers, employees, or other officials of NGOs who apply for USAID contracts, grants, cooperative agreements or other USAID funding, or who apply for registration with USAID as PVOs. The information will be used to conduct national security screening of such individuals and NGOs to ensure that USAID funds do not inadvertently or otherwise provide support to entities or individuals associated with terrorism. To thoroughly conduct this screening, it is necessary to collect information on the principal officers and other employees of applicant organizations or on individuals that are applying directly for awards on their own behalf. Principal officers may include directors, program managers, members of governing bodies, or other individuals with operational control of the organization or those individuals that administer funds.

The primary source of information in PVS will be collected directly from the individuals acting in their own capacity or from the appointed official for the NGO applying for USAID funding or registration as a PVO. An exemption will not be claimed for information collected directly from the individuals acting in their own capacity or from the appointed official for the NGO and this information will be treated as unclassified. USAID is currently devising a retention schedule for these records. However, some information may be obtained from other U.S. government agencies or another agency’s system of records. Any information that is recomplied from another agency’s system of records will follow the retention plan for that agency, will carry the appropriate classification level, and be considered exempt under the originating agency’s exemptions.

Access to these records is limited to those authorized government personnel and authorized contractors who have a need for the records in the performance of their official duties.

For electronic records: Records are kept in a secure database in the USAID Washington headquarters. Access to the records is restricted to those authorized government personnel and authorized contractors with a specific role in the vetting process as part of the performance of their official duties. The PVS database is housed on and accessed from a Sensitive but Unclassified computer network. Vetting requests, analyses, and results will be stored separately on a classified computer network. Both computer networks and the PVS database require a user identification name and password and approval from the Office of Security. An audit trail is maintained and periodically reviewed to monitor access to the system. Authorized government personnel and authorized contractors assigned roles in the vetting process are provided role-specific training to ensure that they are knowledgeable in how to protect personally identifiable information.
